The Village of West Greenville

Imagination and creative investment made it come alive

FOR YEARS, West Greenville was an uninviting remnant of the old textile-mill days, sitting virtually abandoned until 2015, when the Greenville Center for Creative Arts opened doors as well as minds. Now dubbed The Village of West Greenville and boosted by a free trolley, the area offers The Anchorage (a James Beard Award semifinalist for Best New Restaurant in 2018) along with Golden Brown & Delicious (sandwiches and doughnuts), Kuka Juice (cleansers and energizers), and The Village Grind coffee shop. In Poe West, find unique spirits like Six & Twenty's Avena Oat Whiskey; outdoor beer garden Carolina Bauernhaus; organic, handcrafted small-batch confections at LaRue Fine Chocolates; weekly classes at the Truist Culinary and Hospitality Innovation Center; and community-minded Unlocked Coffee Roasters. villageofwv.com
